CAMBIUM LAYERS

The two cambium layers are both found under the bark of woody trees and bushes and is where growth occurs.

The cork cambium is where bark (cork) is produced.
The vascular cambium is where tree growth is produced.

XYLEM & PHLOEM

Xylem cells are found on the inside of the vascular cambium and transport water and minerals to the leaves. The Phloem cells are on the outside of the cambium and transport food from the leaves to the roots.
